AN APPEAL,

From the British House of Commons, to the
To the British House of Commons, and the Colonies.

In behalf of the American Houses of Commons, and the Colonies.

HONOURABLE GENTLEMEN, and if you think the Majesty of the people of England, as Mr. Shippen once spoke in the House, would not be wounded by it, Dear Brethren:—For, whether it will be admitted by you or no, the Assembly General in America are our Commons: These therefore are the Commons of Great-Britain are certainly brethren: And why then, instead of duly regarding and acknowledging it, and behaving answerably to it, should this relation be overlooked and contemned by the elder brethren, and why should they impose on, and wrong their younger brethren?

It is the judgment of that learned civilian Grotius, that, when there is a departure by constant into Colonies, a new People is born futuris: For, as Thucydides says, They are not dismissed as servants, but that they may be with equal rights: And therefore he relates, that, when a second Colony was led from Corinth to Epidamnus, it was to have equal rights. And it is mentioned by Dionysius Halicarnassus, that King Tullius thought it neither true nor just, that mother Cities should, as by nature's laws, govern Colonies.

But perhaps it may be said with respect to the American Colonies, that, supposing they had originally such natural rights; yet they have been banded and bounded, since in the exercise of them by their respective charters. Now, supposing, but not granting, this to be right; it must then be allowed to be reasonable and just, that the Royal Parent should support and encourage them in the full enjoyment of those charter rights, to which they have a clear and inviolable claim: For their charters, especially those of New-England, were no acts of grace, as Bishop Burnet well observed about the time of the revolution; but they were a formal and solemn contract between the Government at home and the charter colonists: Wherein it was agreed and stipulated that they and their posterity should forever enjoy such and such privileges and immunities; provided that, at their own expence, they would settle such and such territories: But now these Colonies have most certainly fulfilled the condition of their obligation: For they have not only been settled at their own expence; but they have defended themselves in their own settlements against their surrounding enemies, and that for above sixty years, without any aid and assistance at all from Great-Britain: Therefore, as these Colonies have most certainly fulfilled, and that to the uttermost, their part of the agreement and contract; it is but just and equitable, that they and their posterity after them should fully enjoy the rights, privileges and immunities by their charters stipulated to them; and it would be unrighteous and wrong to deprive them of these or any of them.
And hence, when under a wicked and lawless administration, the charters of the city of London and New-England were taken away by a Quo Warranto, the most learned and wise men of the law themselves looked on the dissolving of such corporations by a judgment in law as an unintelligible, chimerical and phrenetical extravagance, which had never entered into the heads of any men before: And the Parliament at the revolution relieved that the taking away of these charters was tyrannical and arbitrary. And well might they resolve in this manner: For as Grotius tells us, that cities are immortal; so the learned Hooker, in his ecclesiastical polity, says, corporations are immortal:—And their being cannot lawfully and rightfully be dissolved.

And there is one thing further to be observed here, which is known by the British Government, yet has not been duly considered by them, as it ought to have been; which is, that, since the first settlement of New-England, vast tracts of land and even whole royalties have been fairly purchased of Indian Princes, by the New-English People; which tracts of land and royalties were not dependent on the crown of Britain: And therefore the rightful property of them, and jurisdiction over them, must certainly belong in justice and equity to the people, who purchase them: And therefore no authority under Heaven, but that of the Colonies, to which they belong, can without perversion of right and manifest injustice, presume to lay any taxes on them.

But, without insisting on these things, which, however deserve consideration, by all the wise Heads in the British Administration; we must now take some notice of the highly combustion of late in favour of the supreme legislative authority of the Parliament of Great-Britain over all parts of the British empire, as it is called; and hence their power and authority to tax these Colonies: The British Parliament, it is very true, have by a resolve asserted, that, they have full power and authority to do this: But, let the force of irrefragable truth be here noted, their good understanding and modesty would not suffer them to resolve, that they had any sort of right to do it.

The infamous Bernard indeed presumptuously and wickedly insisted on this rightful authority of the Parliament to tax these Colonies; because, as the mean wretch was free enough to own, he hoped to have a good allowance out of the taxation. And others after him, for the same fordid reason, have asserted the same falsehood: If there be any of the sons of New-England among these, may the Lord of the universe rebuke them, and bring them to a penitent sense of their treachery to their country, and their wicked opposition to its liberties and interests.

But all the talk and towering bustle in favour of the rightful power and authority of the Parliament to tax the Colonies, is quite idle and vain: And, if the grounds of it be soberly examined, it will be found to have no truth and solidity at the bottom:—For indeed, in the affair of taxation at home, the supreme legislative authority of the nation, however it be magnified, has no rightful authority, nor indeed any authority at all: Nor, in that affair, have the Lords and King any power at all but that of legal acceptance: For, if the Lords or King should assume to make any alteration or amendment of any of the money bills, the House of Commons would surely resent it: And indeed the present House have not long since showed their utter dislike of such a lawless exertion of their authority in the upper House of Parliament.

My Lord Chatham, the late famous Commoner, Mr. Pitt, in the House of Commons, well and wisely distinguished between the legislative authority of Britain, and the power of taxation; and generously affirmed, that the latter was only in the House of Commons: And if he be the same honest Englishman in the House of Lords, as he was in the House of Commons, he must be of the same mind still:—And the judicious John Darymple, Esq; in his essay towards a general history of Feudal Property in Great-Britain, has justly remarked as follows, that the laying of taxes—belongs not so properly to Parliament, as to the House of Commons alone. This power, adds he, taken from the King, and given to the Subjects, was the foundation stone of the English Liberty, and now distinguishes the British Constitution from all the hereditary Sovereignities in Europe.

And now, notwithstanding all the blustering in favour of it, What is become of the supreme legislative authority of Great-Britain, in this affair of taxation? They have it not lawfully and rightfully; and yet, forsooth, the claim of it is still made, and lawlessly supported.

But the American Colonies here take leave to fix their feet, and stand their ground: Nor will they move a jot from it. The Commons alone of Britain have the power of laying taxes on the People, whom they represent:—But now, as the Crown-lawyer Blackstone justly asserts, that the General Assembly of the Colonies are their Commons; these therefore must have the same power here, as the Commons of Great-Britain have at home: And the question then will be, Whether the Commons of Great-Britain can have the rightful power of taxing the American Colonies, who have their own Commons to tax them? And it may be further asked, Who gave them this power? Certainly not the People of America. How came they by it then? Have they it by law, or by prescription? No forer person will pretend this. Because, was this power ever claimed by them, until within these few years past, at the motion of some inconsiderate, rash and base persons?
And has the claim of this power by the British Commons ever been allowed by the American Commons and Colonies, only in the passive way? And has not the seeming allowance of it, so far as in any respect or instance this has appeared, been owing, either to a want of thorough consideration of the matter, or a laziness to contend with our elder brethren in Britain?

The supreme legislative authority, as the pert and pragmatical enemies to constitutional government and law call them, have indeed declared their own absolute power and authority to tax the Colonies. But, pray, by what authority do they this; and who gave them this authority? Certainly the American Colonies never gave it; and I am persuaded, never will grant it to them, unless they are out of their heads, and lost to all sense of justice and equity:—And is it not quite unreasonable and absurd to say, that the Commons of Great-Britain and the Commons of America, have both the power of taxing us? Prodigious hard case indeed!
And unhappy we. To be ground between two millstones! Certainly the coming of the British millions upon our own, must grind us to powder:—And then there will be room for the old complaint, have all the workers of inquiry no knowledge, i. e. of the wife and prudent fore; who eat up my People, as they eat bread, and call not upon the LORD?

But if it be enquired, who then has the sole right of taxing the People in America? we answer plainly, the Commons of America, and they only, who are chosen to represent the People here, and who only have a right to dispose of their money. For certainly the Commons of Great Britain can have no right at all to take money out of the pockets of the Americans without their leave, and against their consent: And, if they will do this by an usurped power and authority, it is not a whit better than stealing: And, if they employ force to acquire this money from the Colonies; this constitutes it nothing short of downright robbery: And, if military strength must be showed and exerted by sea as well as land, for the iniquitous purpose of gaining the money of the Americans; such methods as these are nothing better than the ways of highwaymen, who with pistol and sword insist on their power and authority to get away your money, whenever they require it; because they want it, and must, and will, have it.

There is a remarkable History, which it may not be amiss here to cite from Guicciardini; as follows: When Lewis Sforza sent F. Marcobello to Genoa to demand a large contribution of them, the Genoese treated him with great civility, and carried him into a garden, and offered him the herb Basilica to smell at, saying, please to smell at this poor plant, which resembles our afflicted state: when he took it and smelt at it; and being asked, how it smelt? he said, it had a very agreeable smell: Then they desired him to rub it hard, and squeeze it with his fingers; which he did, and then smelt at it again: Upon which they asked, what smell it had? he then told them a very disagreeable one: Then said the Genoese, if you treat us with clemency and mildness, you will find favour amongst us: But, if you squeeze and oppress us, you will find nothing but trouble and disagreeable treatment:—Which history deserves an awakened and attentive consideration with all squandering oppressors.

Upon the whole then, it may be seriously demanded of the Commons of Great-Britain, and it is a very civil, reasonable, and righteous demand of them, that they would put themselves in the situation, and circumstances of the American Commons: And then let them say or think, how they would like it to have the Commons of the mother country, who are their brethren, usurp the unreasonable and arbitrary authority of taxing them? It may rationally be supposed, that they would not like it; but that they would censure the British Commons, as no Britons, for claiming authority; and condemn themselves, if they gave way in the least to it. And why then should they do that to others, which they would not like to have done to themselves? It is requested, to finish this appeal, that the British House of Commons would awake to consider these things; to take further advice of those, who are skilled in the British constitution; and allow the Colonies the full enjoyment of their constitutional rights and privileges, which have been dearly purchased, and ought to be possessed by them without any disturbance from others.

VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 19.

On Friday last the 16th instant, arrived in Hampton Road, the ship General Wolfe, Captain Hunter, with passengers from Londonderry; 30 of them were the same afternoon landed at Hampton, mere skeletons, so weak they could hardly walk or stand, and most of them without any money to pay for their support. The inhabitants charitably took care of them and supplied them with necessities, intending however, to oblige the Captain, who was ill of the gout on board, to give security for their support, according to law. This ship it is said has been 17 weeks on the passage, near half the time at short allowance, came out with 300 passengers, of whom about 20 had died at sea of mere want, and the disorders arising from it, in drinking salt water, &c. part of the time the allowance was half a biscuit and half a pint of water a day.

PHILADELPHIA, OCTOBER 21.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman at Fort Pitt, to Mr. friend here.

"As there is a positive order to demolish Fort Pitt, the whole frontier is open to savage generosity; the people in general, out of regard to their own safety, with the advice of the leading gentlemen, have fallen into the measure that was talked over by sundry gentlemen when I saw you last, to address the Governor and Assembly for some troops to protect our trade and frontiers.
As it is an affair which must concern not only the inhabitants here, but every feeling heart; and being assured of your friendship, we now make bold to trouble you on this important occasion, and solicit you to promote and forward the petition we now send down for that purpose."

Last night arrived here the sloop Patty, Captain Batten, mentioned in our last, to be run foul of off the Cape of Virginia.
She was full in with two days after by the ship General Wolfe, Captain Hunter, who, after securing some of the most valuable effects, sent some of his people on board, who brought her in.

November 4. Captain Wadum, in 21 days from Providence, informs, That a brig, Captain Halsey, belonging to New-York, was arrived there with part of the 29th regiment from Augustine, which he landed, and had taken part of the 31st on board, and was waiting for a wind to proceed with them for St. Vincent.

Since our last arrived here, after a passage of 17 weeks, the ship General Wolfe, Captain Hunter, from Londonderry.

With Captain Hanse, arrived here from Jamaica, came passengers, Mr. Burnett, and family, of Kingston, Capt. Simpson, and Mr. M'Moutrie.

NEW-YORK, OCTOBER 29.

His Excellency the Governor issued a proclamation on the 26th instant, proroguing the General Assembly of this province, till the 10th day of December next.

On the 19th instant, failed for London, the ships Earl of Dun-more, Capt. Lawrence, and London, Capt. Chambers; with the latter went passengers, Miss De Vilme, Capt. Reaves, and his Lady, Major Hughes, Capt. Sowerby, of the Artillery, Mr.
Gullian Verplank, Mr. Heston, Master Provost, Mr. Richard Shuckburgh, and Mr. David Morseau.

November 5. The sloop Thomas, T. Roberts, Master, belonging to Norfolk, in Virginia, bound to St. Vincent, on the 28th of August, lat. at 25. long. 59. 40. in a severe gale lost his mast, boom, square sail, yard, main sail, and the rigging thereunto belonging, with cabouse, &c. in this deplorable condition we lay 10 days, when near the sail end of Hispaniola, a French ship, the Tortola, from France, bound to Cape Francois, Captain Freecarob, with great humanity took us in tow, and conducted us safe into Cape Francois, with the whole of our cargo, where we arrived on the 17th of September, 1772. Any printer who sees this, is desired to insert it, and oblige their humble servant,

THOMAS ROBERTS.

A Gentleman in England writes his friend here, that the sending such great quantities of ship timber in bulk to England, will sink the price of ships there, and raise it in America.

November 9. The first battalion of the 60th, or Royal American regiment, under the command of Colonel Provost, failed from Amboy for Jamaica, Friday last.

On Saturday the 31st of October, embarked on board the transports destined for the island of Antigua, the second battalion of his Majesty's 60th, or Royal American regiment of foot, under the command of Major George Etherington.

A letter from Detroit the 26th of Sept. says, "Yesterday Ishiwaband and Shawanese, two Ottawa Chiefs, with two young men of their nation, came in here from Saginaw Bay, and brought a letter from one Beaulieu, (a French trader there) to Major B. flat, our Commandant, informing him that Phineas Pond, (an English trader) with his two batmen, were murdered by the Chippawas, on their way from Michillimackinac to this place, near River au Cre. Ishiwaband spoke to Mintowabe, (one of the murderers) and reproached him for his behaviour, in seeking to disturb the tranquillity of the land when all was peace and quietness; he answered, that liquor was the cause of it, they were drunk. Major B. sent back the messenger to day, to tell the Chiefs and principal people of the nation, that he insists absolutely on their delivering up the murderers, that he will not pardon them on any other condition, and will put a stop to their trade, &c."

LONDON, AUGUST 24.

Extract of a letter from Lennarchyshead, in Anglesea, in North Wales.

"A very extraordinary affair happened at a house in this neighbourhood lately:—An old woman went to make some mustard in a wooden platter (as is customary with the poorer sort of people in that country) and she had an old ball that she made use of to grind mustard; this ball she put in some hot turf ashes, in order to keep it from rust and damp; but alas! the ball proved to be a bomb shell, full of combustibles, which took fire, and threw the old woman on her back, and made its way through the window, into an adjoining field, where a young woman was going by with a picher of water in her hand; it broke the picher all to pieces, and the young woman escaped unhurt; providentially it did no other damage than frightening the old woman into fits, breaking the windows, &c."

Extract of a letter from Peterburgh, July 18.

"The Empress has given orders for fitting out three ships, which are to be employed in attempting the discovery of the north-west passage to China, so much talked of. It is supposed the Empress has adopted this scheme from the success of a few Russians who some time since sailed upon the St. Peter frigate, and it is said, found their way to China, round by Nova Zembla, to Kamchatka. The ships are now getting ready at Archangel, and will sail next spring; they are to take a different course to what the people in the St. Peter did, as they found out too far north; these are to coast, if possible, along the land, and take advantage of all the currents, &c. in their favour."

A parcel of dried leaves of a shrub, the growth of Georgia, has been received by a Gentleman in town from his correspondent at Savannah, which has a flavour and taste equal to Hyson tea, in colour a light green.

L O N D O N , S E P T E M B E R 9 .

THE master-stroke of policy in the late revolution at Sweden, is the standing revenue which the King has obtained in all cases; for if the now wretched Senate should at any time have consented to refuse the crown a new aid, his Majesty has the right to tax at a certainty for a resource; and being allowed to raise money in cases of public emergency, of which he himself is constituted the sole judge, he can never want a tolerable pretence for levying contributions on the people.

Extract of a letter from Copenhagen, August 23.

The Privy Council has been assembled several times in the course of last week, and sat again yesterday till very late in the evening. Great preparations are since making in our marine, which cannot have the Mediterranean for their object, as peace is re-established with the Corsairs of Barbary. These movements have re-awakened the attention of our speculators, but as yet we know nothing further of these armaments. It is true, indeed, that the ships which have returned from the Mediterranean, have landed the troops they had on board; but no order has yet been received for disarming these vessels. Two advice boats have this day taken in provisions for the Baltic; and other preparations are making, which seem to indicate as if it were apprehended that some blow would speedily be struck in that part.

There is advice from Dunkirk, that an English gentleman of fortune, is put under an arrest, for giving a challenge to a certain great officer belonging to the household of France.

Large orders are now executing in the clothing countries for the Russian market, and said to be intended for clothing the Emperor's troops.

We learn from Stockholm, that a great number of the principal nobility have refused signing the paper, owing to the King's independence, in consequence of which they have been banished to their estates.

Yesterday was held a Court of Aldermen, when Mr. Sheriff Bull was sworn in Alderman of Queenhithe Ward, and Joseph Martin, Esq. was returned for Lime-street Ward.

The patriotic party in the City have, we hear, obtained no acquisition in the new Alderman, Mr. Martin; for though he is not with the government at St. Stephen's Chapel, he is against the popular proceedings at Guildhall; and is one of the few men who dare think for themselves, without regarding the frowns of a minister on one hand, or on the other dreading the turbulence of a faction.

A correspondent assures us, that affairs in the ministry were never in a more confused state than at present, owing, it is said, to the disappointments they daily meet with on application made to gentlemen to accept of some particular employments.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman of very considerable property in the Western Isles, in Scotland, August 16.

"The people have emigrated from this poor corner of Scotland, since the year 1768, have carried with them at least ten thousand pounds in specie; notwithstanding this is a great loss to us, yet the depopulation by these emigrations is a much greater. Unless some speedy remedy is fallen upon by the government and land-holders, the consequences must prove very fatal, as this part of the country is rather in the infancy of being civilized than improved."

An anonymous correspondent assures us that the reports of the death of a celebrated dramatic author, who absconded, is entirely false, as he is now in a convent of Cordeliers, in the south of France, where he has retired for life.

SEPTEMBER 11. A Council was Yesterday morning held at Whitehall on American Affairs, but nothing conclusively determined upon with respect to the new settlement, which is so much an object of public expectation, as well as so much a favourite scheme with the Ministry.

Some very interesting advices have been received within these few days from the Court of Berlin, relative to the private affairs of his Prussian Majesty.

Some letters from Hamburg speak of a Convention which is now in agitation between the Courts of Petersburg, Stockholm, and Berlin; in consequence of which, the last mentioned Court is to give up her part of Finland to the second; and this power is to surrender its share of Pomerania to the third, in consideration of four millions of rubles to be paid by the King of Prussia to the Emperor of Russia. If there is any foundation for this news, we shall soon know more of it.

A letter from Amsterdam mentions, that some thousand barrels of gunpowder are now buying up there to be shipped on board Dutch transports, for the service of the Grand Signior.

Orders were sent on Wednesday for a third rate man of war and two frigates to sail immediately for the Mediterranean, to reinforce the fleet of observation in that sea.

The following paragraph was received from an anonymous correspondent:—The strict and intimate alliance which subsisted formerly between the Lords Chatham and Camden exists now no longer. Whilst there was the least prospect of the latter being reinstated in power, the former was his fast friend; but now that there is not the least probability of Lord Camden's coming in, the patriot of Hayes has forsaken him to the storm, and joined his interest with a party which is more likely to obtain success.

Whatever changes may take place in Administration, the noble Lords Chatham and Rockingham, it is now imagined, will have no appointment of any kind.

His Majesty has been pleased to appoint James Symphon, Esq. to be Adjutant to the third battalion of the Royal Regiment of Artillery.

SEPTEMBER 12. We are informed, that the Russian Ambassador will set out in a few days on his return to the Court of Petersburg.

Yesterday the Earls of Suffolk and Dartmouth set out of town for their respective country seats.

Thursday morning, the Honourable Sir William Hamilton, his lady and family, set out on his Embassy to the Court of Naples.

The Earl of Litchfield still continues dangerously ill, without hopes of his recovery.

It is said that the Secretaryship to the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland was offered to the Honourable Mr. Charles Fox, and refused.

We are assured, the first business Parliament goes upon the ensuing winter, will be the affairs of India. This it seems is what the ministry have long had a propensity to do, but never had so fair an opportunity as the present, for gratifying that propensity.

It is allowed, that Governor Hutchinson's speech to the House of Representatives at Boston, on the 14th of July, is a most perfect master-piece of the kind; that it contains one of the finest portraits (notwithstanding its brevity) of the nature and end of the British constitution that ever was penned; and far beyond any of the celebrated speeches of Sir Francis Bernard, the late Governor.

It has been said that Government will be very busy in order to have a man after their own heart chosen chief magistrate for the city for the year ensuing; but from better authority we hear they will remain neutral in that affair, it being a matter of great indifference to them who, or who is not, chosen Lord Mayor.

Authentic intelligence is said to have arrived here the beginning of the week, that the Danes have very great apprehensions from the present motions of the King of Prussia. He said he has laid claim to some of the Danish territories which formerly belonged to the Prussian dominions. However this report seems almost improbable, for we thought his hands are pretty full with the affairs of Sweden, without preparing other employment.

Considerable orders are very shortly expected from Petersburg for various kinds of curious mechanism in the jewellery, and watch and clock branches, which are to be exported next year in the ships intended to be fitted out for the Oriental Company, under the patronage of the Emperor.

The following is an exact translation of the manifesto, published by the revolutionists in Sweden, dated Christianstadt, in Schonen, August the 18th:

"This is published to acquaint every body with our views and intentions in taking such measures as may defend and preserve this city and fortress, and province, as well as the whole realm.

"Whereas malicious men have carried it so far by their devices, machinations, and plain usurpation, to the highest disadvantage and prejudice of our law and nation, as to bear wrongfully the name of the states of our realm, by which they execute the highest violation, departing from the true road of our law, and from all reasonable limits; not having before their eyes their true and due determination, but inferring, and preferring strange and disadvantageous intentions, which evidently strong enough shew that no ordinances have been to prevent the scarcity and dearth of bread corn, which has reigned in our realm these two years; by which the provinces are so monstrously oppressed, that the poor people are daily dying of famine, and no remedy has been adopted to relieve our poor subjects, or to encourage commerce, or to make money circulate, and all the departments of the state neglected; so that a most feeble and weak impotency; nay, even a decay and destruction of our realm, must be an infallible consequence of it, public and private assurance being trampled under foot; the honour, reputation, property, of good and honest people not protected; but on the contrary, this despotic and arbitrary power is carried so far as to encroach, even upon the rights and lawful power of the King himself, in direct opposition to the obvious and due respect towards the majestic dignity of the Crown; therefore the military of this city and fortress, finding such a government to be the worst of despotic and arbitrary systems (which according to oath of the ancient constitution, and according to the duty of each true patriot towards his posterity, as well as towards his co-temporaries, must be rejected, and ought to be prevented.) The garrison of the said city and fortress, therefore, declare in one concord, that they renounce, reclaim, and abdicate all the esteem, honour, duty, and obedience towards the present state of the realm, and all that has been resolved and concluded by them till this present moment; the said garrison declare, for a mere cypher, and is highly punishable. And further, with relation to these affairs, the garrison is assembled with a real and earnest zeal, and have unanimously concluded not to lay down their arms till they shall have accomplished their intended aim. Ye good and honest Swedes, the path is beaten, the ice is broken, and it is now time to remember your duties towards your God, King, and country; each of you shew himself as a man in his due office and vocations, make a concord with us; this, ye good and honest Swedes, is the only remedy to prevent your own country from a most deplorable decay and destruction, and to save your country from foreign powers, which, if not openly, at least secretly strive to dismember it, and nothing but danger threatens it; we declare before God and the world, that nothing but true patriotism is our view, and that all our intentions are merely and solely for the good of our country, and in such a manner give to God what belongs to God, and to the King what belongs to the King."

Mr. Martin, it is said, has declined serving the office of Alderman, into which he was lately elected, on the death of Sir Robert Kite, which will occasion another election in a few days.

SEPTEMBER 15. The success and regularity with which the late revolution in Sweden was effected, shows it to have been no work of chance, but the result of a deliberate and well-digested plan. If some joys true, above ten years has been employed in it, though it was reserved for his present Swedish Majesty to accomplish. May the event not prove ominous to Great-Britain, where we now see a formidable standing army, and measures likewise pursued for more than ten years together, which seem to indicate very nearly something of a similar design.

The circumstance of the handkerchief which was wrapped round the Swedish King's arm during the late movements at Stockholm; is to give birth to a new order; the Knights whereof are to wear a white ribbon round the right arm, in memory of that event, and what is called the fidelity to their King, of those who so ingloriously assisted on that occasion in enslaving their country.

On Saturday afternoon at five o'clock, a Courier from Rome arrived at the Secretary of State's office in Cleveland Row, who is said to have brought dispatches of the utmost importance.

Yesterday morning about nine o'clock, his Excellency the Swedish Ambassador waited on Lord Rochford, at St. James's, from whence they proceeded to his Majesty. Some important news is said to be received from Sweden.

A report is current, that his Grace the Duke of Grafton is appointed Ambassador to a certain Northern Court, and that he will shortly set out on his Embassy.

Advice is said to be received, that the Portuguese Governor at Rio Janeiro has seized the cargoes of two French East-Indiamen, bound for Europe, and confined their crews, in return for an affair of the like nature by the French at the Island of Mauritius, on a Portuguese vessel bound for Lisbon, in November 1771.

It is very certain that the French, who were the chief Agents in bringing about the Revolution in Denmark, have been equally instrumental in the late disturbances in Sweden, and are now sowing the seeds of discord between the two powers, in order to begin the scheme of late adopted by the Bourbonian family.

The answer to the memorial lately presented by Mr. Lyttleton, our Ambassador at Lisbon to the Portuguese Court, relative to the English traffic in that kingdom, was on Thursday laid before the Privy-Council at St. James's.

Orders are sent from the Admiralty for the keels of two 74 gun ships to be laid on the slips, one at Portsmouth, and the other at Chatham.

The Admiralty are come to a resolution to reduce considerably the naval forces instead of augmenting them.

The Parliament of Ireland is prorogued to the 8th of December next.

Henry Arthur Herbert, Earl of Powis, Viscount Ludlow, Lord Herbert of Chesham, Baron Powis of Powis-Castle, and Baron Herbert of Chesham and of Ludlow, a Lord of the Privy Council, Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the County of Salop, Custos Rotulorum of Montgomeryshire, Recorder of Shrewsbury, and Lieutenant General of his Majesty's forces, who died on Friday last at Roth, was created Lord Herbert of Chesham on the 21st of December 1743, and on the death of William Herbert, Marquis of Powis, who died March 8, 1747-8, and left his Lordship his noble estate, he was further advanced to the dignity of Baron Powis of Powis-Castle, Viscount Ludlow, and Earl of Powis, May 27, 21 George II. and was also created Lord Herbert, Baron Herbert of Chesham and of Ludlow, October 7, 1749. His Lordship married March 30, 1751, Barbara, only daughter and heiress of the Hon. Edward Herbert, Esq. only brother of William Marquis of Powis, and of his wife the Lady Henrietta, only daughter of James Earl of Waldegrave, by whom he had issue one Son and one Daughter, viz. George-Edward-Henry-Arthur, Lord Viscount Ludlow, (now Earl of Powis) born July 7, 1755, and Lady Harris, born September 3, 1758.

SEPTEMBER 17. If there be any truth, says a correspondent, in the report that the treasury hath issued out its orders to all persons connected with the Ministry, not, on any account, to interfere in the ensuing election for Lord Mayor, it certainly shews the prudence of our rulers; for what can it signify to government who fills the city chair? at least in times like these, when no national measures render an union of the court and city essentially necessary to carry them into execution.

The two Secretaries of State have had, during the course of this week, several conferences with his Majesty, on some extraordinary intelligence that has been received from Stockholm and Berlin.

Yesterday there was a levee at St. James's. His Majesty returned at three o'clock to Kew. Lords Cathcart and Rochford were at the levee.

We are assured Lord Cathcart has brought several valuable presents from the Empress of Russia to the King, and a letter written in her own hand, testifying her strict attachment to his Majesty; and the interest of Great-Britain.

The Right Honourable Henry Borthwick, Lord Borthwick, whose death was mentioned in yesterday's ledger, was Premier Baron of Scotland, and was son of Captain Henry Borthwick, by his wife Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Pringle, of Strichel; which Captain Henry was son of William, son of Alexander, second son of William, son of William, son of Alexander, second son of William, third Lord Borthwick, and, after some contest, was declared successor of John, the ninth Lord, who died without issue, in 1672, and has voted at the elections for the sixteen Peers ever since 1734. This ancient family have been very numerous in Scotland, and Thomas de Borthwick obtained some lands near Lauder, in Berwickshire, in the reign of David II. who came to the throne of Scotland in 1329.

Extract of a letter from Warsaw, August 14.

"We are told here that Gen. Haddick is going to publish an universalia, the tenor of which is such, that we can scarce give credit to it. Among many articles which it is said to contain, one is as follows, viz. that those who shall presume to speak of the affairs of Poland, so far as they relate to the Court of Vienna, and particularly such as shall dare to say that the latter Court has any design of taking possession of certain districts which do not belong to them, shall be condemned to pay a fine of three hundred florins."

By letters from Amsterdam, which arrived within these two days, we are informed, that a Dutch East-Indiaman has brought some very disagreeable accounts of the state of our affairs in Bengal. The substance of the intelligence is, that above 480 Europeans have been killed in a late engagement with the Marattes; and that a great number of English officers, finding their oppressions daily increased by those who had the management of the company's affairs, determined to quit the service, and had accordingly thrown up their commissions.

Letters from Mequinez, dated July 2, bring advice, that Mehemet Ben Adoubia, nephew of the Emperor of Morocco, is marched from thence with a body of Moorish horse, in order to form a camp within a few miles of the Spanish territories, where they are to be joined by some more which are framing and enlisting.

The 17th ult. between ten and eleven o'clock in the morning a fire broke out at Hoeckelen, on the river Linen, two leagues from Gorcum, in the province of Holland. As this place is on a great trade in hay, and other combustible matters, the communicated itself from one magazine to another, so that six in the evening the whole place was consumed, together with all the effects and provisions therein. Happily no one perished in the flames.

Extract of a letter from Chatham, September 14.

"Orders are come hither for the workmen in this yard work double tides, to get ready for sea in a fortnight's time, ten men of war and two frigates, which are repairing some damage they have received by running foul of each other in a storm of thunder and lightning, which happened a few days ago, when they lay in Margate roads. The mariners that are here in orders to hold themselves ready for embarking at a few hours notice, but where they are destined to is kept a secret."

"Last Sunday night we had a prodigious deal of lightning which has done great damage in the adjacent country, several cows and sheep being found dead in the fields the next morning."

"The same night a Dutch ship was set on fire by lightning in Yarmouth roads, and burnt to the water's edge. The crew took to their boat, and got safe on shore near Yarmouth. She was bound to Newcastle, and had only ballast on board."

Yesterday morning a messenger set off from the Secretary of State's office with dispatches for the Ambassador at Paris, and is from thence to proceed with some other dispatches to Turin for the Ambassador there.

On Tuesday night two expresses arrived at the Secretary of State's office, one from Sir Joseph Yorke at the Hague, and the other from Stockholm.

Yesterday morning a Nobleman of great distinction set off for Dover, in order to embark for the continent: He is said to be charged with important business to a foreign court.

The affairs of Sweden with Denmark, are said to have operated more strongly in favour of the young Queen of Denmark than all the most pressing intreaties of that Princess; as we are now told that a proper place is fixing on for her residence in England.

We are informed that Agents are now in Holland, negotiating the loan of an immense sum for the use of the Empress of Russia.

Extract of a letter from Petersburg, July 18.

"We have just received news, that the Plenipotentiaries for peace have at last met, but nothing of any consequence has as yet been concluded; the negotiations will be confined solely to the affairs between the Russians and Turks, and Poland, (the cause of the war) is not to be mentioned in the treaty, that unhappy country is to be divided in the course of next month, as the lines on the maps are drawn and agreed to by the three great Powers."

"His Britannic Majesty's ship the Flora, still continues at Cronstadt, but as the English Ambassador is on recovery, we apprehend she will depart soon; most of the foreign Ministers dined on board her one day last week, and they speak of her with such encomiums, that it is said the Empress and the Grand Duke (her Son) will shortly visit the Flora likewise. The Grand Duke gave a magnificent ball last Friday, and to-morrow he gives a masquerade at the Palace of Peterhoff. Count Chernichev is just named by the Empress as Governor and General in Chief over the new ceded province from Poland, and all the Russian troops, instead of returning home, are to remain in the late-acquired territory till all is settled and quiet. A conspiracy was found out about a month ago against the favourite Count Orloff and his Brother, but it was crushed without noise, and about ninety different people (many of them soldiers) were sent into exile in Siberia."

Counter orders are given towards raising extra supplies of provisions in Ireland for the use of his Majesty's navy.

An additional salary of 1000l. per annum is ordered to be paid to all his Majesty's Consuls in foreign parts.

A plan for erecting a new Silk Manufactory at Bristol has been presented to his Majesty, and was most graciously received.

Montesquieu, when treating of the constitution of England, most strikingly points out its excellencies, and shews wherein the advantages it enjoys above others consist. He observes that "in every government there are three sorts of power, the legislative, the executive, and the judiciary, and that in a constitution where these three powers are kept the most distinct from each other, there true liberty will flourish." Should an union of the legislative and executive powers take place, there is "an end, says the Baron, of liberty," because if the legislative branch be entrusted with the power of executing, it may enact the most arbitrary laws on purpose to execute them. In like manner the judiciary power should on no account be joined to the legislative, since in that case the person entrusted to exercise it would be both judge and legislator; nor should it be connected with the executive power, because then the judge would have a sanction to commit the most violent oppressions. In short, as in Great-Britain, these three powers should be vested in the hands of quite different persons, none of whom should infringe upon the provinces of each other, and in case of a tendency to such infringement, the other powers should be able to check and thus frustrate the design. Should the legislative power, for instance, encroach upon the executive, had not the latter a right to stop it, the former would, to all intents and purposes, be despotic; there would, to use Montaigne's words, "be a kind of republicanism, though by no means a free government," as on the other hand, the legislative ought to have a right of examining into the manner in which the executive power hath demeaned itself, or in plain English, how those laws it was chiefly concerned in enacting have been executed. From this outline of the British government, it is easy to observe which of these powers aim at being absolute, the legislative or executive; let which would prevail, our liberty is lost, though it might probably be more irrecoverably so, should the executive form the design of being absolute. However, we may lay this down as a certain axiom, that whenever a monarch, or his ministers, level their aims at arbitrary power, they will begin by endeavouring to fish away some part of the legislative power, and annex it to the executive; they will unite as many offices in the person of the sovereign as they can, and by degrees attempt to possess as many branches of magistracy as possible. In short, they will endeavour to corrupt and swallow up the legislative in the executive power; have we no foundation of this kind laying, upon which, in some future reign, the superstructure of despotism may be securely raised? If we have, may an army of patriots arise to tear them up by the roots.

There are several things wherein the executive power of a state cannot interfere without imminent danger to the people's liberties. Such are, amongst others, the army and supplies, which our constitution has wisely ordained should be provided by the legislative power. And indeed, was the executive power permitted to interfere in raising the public money, it would become legislative in the most material article of legislation.

However courtiers may affect to cry down all oppositions, every man, who wishes well to his country, must be pleased at their existence. Besides shewing, that all public virtue is not evaporated, considering the growing power of the crown, and how apt monarchs in general are to encroach upon the people's rights, oppositions will be found necessary checks upon their attempts. Add to this, that they create a spirit of enquiry, and occasion the people to discover, lay claim to, and recognize, those powers to which they have an undoubted right, and which are truly formidable to the arbitrary designs of wicked ministers and despotic kings.

The "MAJESTY OF THE PEOPLE" is a phrase familiar amongst republican writers, and which has been scoffed at by your high-fown gentry of the monarchic order; but is not the phrase capable of a literal acceptance? And is there not actually a power of a very MAJESTIC nature lodged in the people? Because freemen, they are supposed to make laws for the government of themselves: Hence the legislative power in a free state resides in the whole body of the people; and doth not this convey an august idea? It is only for the sake of convenience that this power is by the people delegated to their representatives: So that MAJESTY when applied to those whom upstart Courtiers are pleased to call the "scum of the earth," is not a term without a meaning.

One of the most capital charges urged against a certain Chief Justice, that his "judgments are not always strictly conformable to the exact LETTER of the law." This, though by the undiscerning it may be thought trivial, is in reality almost as great a crime as a judge in a land of liberty can possibly commit; for as it is the boast of Englishmen to be governed only by such laws as they themselves have assented to, if a judge should suffer his private opinion to interfere, or should attempt to exercise that private opinion by way of glossary, to explain the laws, the people in such a case would live in a state without any kind of rule whereby to form their conduct, or without knowing with precision the obligations they are under. They might act within the LETTER of the law, but a judge assuming a right to interpret its SPIRIT might punish at discretion. So necessary it is that judges should be no more than mouths to pronounce the words of the law, mere passive beings, incapable of moderating either its force or rigour.

ST. JAMES'S, September 8. The King has been pleased to order letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal of the Kingdom of Ireland, for the promotion of the Reverend Joseph Dean Bourke, now Dean of Down, to the united Bishopricks of Leighlin and Ferns, vacant by the death of the Right Reverend Dr. Edward Young, late Bishop thereof.

The King has been pleased to order letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal of the Kingdom of Ireland, for granting unto the Reverend Ralph Walsh, Master of Arts, the Deanry of Down, vacant by the promotion of the Reverend Joseph Dean Bourke to the united Bishopricks of Leighlin and Ferns.

SHERBORNE, September 7. On Monday last died, in a very advanced age, at his house in Ludgvan, in Cornwall, William Borlase, L.L.D. F.R.S. well known to the public for his historical writings.

EDINBURGH, September 2. We hear from Sutherland, that the ship Adventure, Captain Smith, filed from Loch Errisbon on Sunday the 9th ult. with upwards of two hundred passengers for North-Carolina, emigrants from the shire of Sutherland.

STOCKHOLM, August 18. Piquets of cavalry patrolled all the streets of our capital last night; and the guard at all the posts, as well as those in the Arsenal, have been doubled.

The King, escorted by five life guards, also went in person through all the city, in order to assure himself of the measures that had been taken for the preserving the public repose.

SMYRNA, July 29. We expected here the publication of the Armistice, but the hopes of our merchants have been frustrated, so that we cannot enjoy in our Seas a suspension of arms. This measure would be so much the more necessary, as the Archipelago abounds with Russian corsairs, which seize and carry away the cargoes of neutral ships laden on account of the Turks. Some of them have entered this gulph, and seized several boats. A number of Janissaries would have armed other boats and attacked them; but the government hath repressed their temerity, and prevented an enterprise, the consequences of which would have been fatal to this place.

LISBON, August 8. The King hath resolved not to send any viceroys for the future to Goa, but a Governor only, who is to reside there on his part; and his Majesty has appointed Don Jose de Camora, Brigadier, to fill that post, who will soon embark for the above place.

The Moor, who caused Joseph Policarpo, one of the Assassins that attempted the life of the King, to be taken, hath received as a recompence 200,000 melle-reis and a title of honour. Policarpo will be brought to trial very soon.

CADIZ, August 8. An Algerine galliot, on entering the Mediterranean lately, was perceived from the fort of Cadiz, when the garrison fired a cannon with such exactness, that she was split in two. They sent some Chaloupes to take up the crew, who are put under quarantine, and will afterwards be conducted to different places in Spain.

THOMAS WEST,

An Overseer, of a swarthy complexion, about twenty-five years of age, five feet seven inches high, very slim, who lived at the subscriber's plantation about three years, and just about the time the said three negroes run-away, he left him. It is generally imagined the said Thomas West has carried the said negroes into North Carolina, Virginia, or Maryland, and may offer them for sale: All persons are hereby cautioned not to purchase the said negroes, and if purchased by any person, they are hereby required to deliver the said slaves to the proprietor, or they may depend on being prosecuted to the utmost rigour of the law. A reward of Three Hundred Pounds, currency, will be paid on delivery of the negroes, or in proportion, if taken out of the province; and a further reward of One Hundred Pounds, will be given, to whoever will give information of their being carried out of the province, or being harboured by a white person, on conviction of the offender.

THE Creditors of the Estate of RICHARD BERESFORD, Esq; deceased, are desired to send in settled Accounts; and those indebted, to make Payment to ALEXANDER GILLON.

SARAH BERESFORD, Executrix.

ROBERT SMITH, } Executors.

ALEXANDER GILLON, }

A large Assortment of tanned LEATHER, Neg-SHOES, and BRICKS, to be sold by the said Alexander Gillon.

Charles-Town, July 14, 1772.

THE Subscriber is much obliged to his planting Friends, who, by landing their Crops at his Wharf for three Years past, have thereby introduced it to Business. He acted as Factor during that Time, purely to prevent his Friends being Sufferers by their intended Kindness to him, as it was very injudiciously insinuated, that Rice would not sell at his Wharf: But as he is now well convinced, and flatters himself all his Friends are fully so too, that their Crops landed in large or small Parcels, will sell altogether as well at his Wharf, as at any other in Charles-Town; and that any Gentlemen, principally concerned in the Factorage Way, will now have no Objection to receive and sell Rice or Indigo landed thereat: He therefore chooses to decline that Business, finding it more than he is able to go through. He hopes his good Friends will still land their Crops at his Wharf, where they may depend he shall take Care himself that their Boats have all possible Dispatch:

As to the Safety and Convenience of his Docks and Stores, he is sure there are none preferable to them in Town in those Respects, and few (if any) Barns in the Country are cooler and more secure from Fire; and 'tis almost impossible for a Barrel of Rice to be lost or stolen in Landing or Shipping at his Wharf. Such Gentlemen as use his Wharf constantly, may depend on never wanting Storage whenever they do not like the going price:—No prudent Planter but must be convinced, that this is a Matter of the utmost Consequence to him, as many, for these three Years past, have had their Crops (when landed in Town) exposed of very much against their own Inclinations and Judgments, merely for Want of Storage; and this he is sure has been the Cause, particularly this Year several Times, notwithstanding the Shortness of the Crop.

Messrs. GIBBES & HORT,
Who have had long Experience in the FACTORAGE BUSINESS in all its Branches, and confine themselves to that only, have taken Charge of his Scales, and will transact their Business on his Wharf. To these Gentlemen he begs Leave to recommend such of his Friends who are not otherwise engaged.

Christopher Gadsden.

N. B. Any Gentlemen in Trade may depend on not wanting STORAGE for such Parcels of Rice as they purchase at his Wharf.

GIBBES & HORT,

ACQUAINT THEIR FRIENDS,

THAT they continue the FACTORAGE BUSINESS in all its Branches, (on the usual Terms) and for the Convenience of good Storage, will transact it on Captain GADSDEN'S Wharf, where they desire those of their Friends that it may be agreeable to, will Order such Goods as they shall direct to their Care, being convinced that they will sell as well there as at any other Place in Charles-Town. Constant Attendance will also be given at their other COMPTING-HOUSE on the Bay. Their Friends will be supplied with proper Boats, agreeable to their Orders; and they hope to merit a Continuance of their Favors, by a steady Attention to their Employers Interest, especially as they are determined to confine themselves to the FACTORAGE BUSINESS only; and they assure their Friends that they are not in any wise interested in Captain GADSDEN'S Stores, so that whenever they shall think it prudent to Store for a better Market, it must be solely with a View to their Friends Interest.

N. B. Wanted to attend on said Wharf, a Person well qualified and recommended.

TWENTY POUNDS REWARD,

For the following RUN-AWAY, viz.

JAMES, a likely, young Mulatto man, the property of Mr. Moultrie, of St. Augustine, and arrived here lately with Captain Bachop. He formerly belonged to Col. William Byrd, of Virginia, was brought to Carolina by Mr. Joseph Levy, and now pretends that he is free. He is arful and sensible, and will endeavour to slip himself as a seaman; all masters of vessels are therefore hereby cautioned not to carry him off the province. TWENTY POUNDS reward will be given, for apprehending and delivering him to me or to the warden of the work-house in Charles-Town, besides all reasonable charges; and a further reward of FIFTY POUNDS, on discovery of his being harboured or concealed by a white person, to be paid on conviction, by ALEXANDER ROSE.

CARNE & POINSETT,

SOUTH-CAROLINA.
By His Excellency the Right Honourable Lord CHARLES-GREVILLE MONTAGU, Captain-General, Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over the said Province, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

A PROCLAMATION.

HEREAS by the Continuation of the BOUNDARY-LINE between this Province and North-Carolina, which has lately been run in Pursuance of His MAJESTY'S INSTRUCTIONS to the Governors of both Provinces, several Plantations which have been settled by Virtue of Grants from the Governor of North-Carolina, fall within this Government: In Order to preserve to the PROPRIETORS of such GRANTS, the equitable Right they have to the Lands mentioned therein, I DO, by the Advice of His Majesty's Council, issue this my Proclamation, hereby strictly forbidding all the Deputy-Surveyors of this Province from laying any Warrant on Lands for which Grants have been obtained in North-Carolina: AND notifying to all Persons possessed of, or intitled unto, such Grants, that they may have Grants for the same from this Government, on their producing such Grants, without their personal Attendance at Charles-Town, provided Application is made for the same within TWELVE MONTHS from the Date hereof.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the said Province, at Charles-Town, this Nineteenth Day of June, Anno Domini, 1772, and in the Twelfth Year of His Majesty's Reign. C. O. MONTAGU.

By His Excellency's Command, THOMAS SKOTTOWS, Secretary.
GOD SAVE THE KING.

ABSTRACT of an ACT
For establishing, keeping, and maintaining a WATCH COM-PANY, for preserving good Orders and Regulations in CHARLES-TOWN:

“AND WHEREAS the THROWING of Squibs, Serpents, and other Fire-Works in Charles-Town, may endanger and occasion the FIRING of the said Town: For Prevention whereof, for the future, Be it enacted, by the Authority aforesaid, That no Person or Persons whatsoever, from and after the Ratification of this ACT, shall throw, shoot, or set on Fire, any Squib, Serpent, or other such like Fire-Work, within the Bounds of the said Town, under the Penalty of FORTY SHILLINGS, current Money, for every such Offence, to be recovered from the Offender or Offenders, upon Conviction thereof, before any Magistrate of the said Town; and upon Refusal, or Delay of Payment of the same immediately, then the said Magistrate or Magistrates of the said Town, shall, and they are hereby empowered and required, to order and cause such corporal Punishment to be inflicted upon every such Offender or Offenders, as shall in his or their Discretion, be adjudged suitable to the Offence. And that, on the Evenings or Nights of Holy-Days, or Rejoicing-Days, and at other Times, when it shall be needful, the Captain or Commander of the Watch shall, and he is hereby required and commanded, to order out the whole Watch Company upon Duty, in going the Rounds frequently, or dispersing them in proper Places, in and about the said Town, as Occasion shall require, until Twelve of the Clock at Night, and longer, if necessary, the more effectually to hinder or prevent all People from throwing, shooting, or setting on Fire Squibs, Serpents, or other Fire-Works in the said Town: And the said Watch is hereby empowered and required, to apprehend such Persons as they shall find so offending, and carry them before some Magistrate or Magistrates of the said Town, to be dealt with according to Law.”
